The new year has begun, and while it's always a time to review the year that's passed and plan for the year ahead, the next school year will bring significant challenges to Monroe Local Schools. Resolving these challenges won't be easy; we've been tasked with organizing several changes that will affect the future of our district. But by working together, the district and community will achieve success.

The district's finances continue to be a serious issue. While the state proceeds with its research into what led to our deficit, some initial, unavoidable causes have emerged. Significant losses in funding, poor economic conditions and delays in county tax payments have weakened an already strained budget. In response, our Board of Education, Superintendent and Treasurer have been working hard toward solutions with the State Auditor and the Ohio Department of Education. The district also has plans to establish a community finance committee to assist us in developing a strategy for recovery.
